

I subscribe to satellite radio and use the local weather and traffic information for advance information on the cities I travel to. If the commercial broadcasters in any one area can not compete with satellite radio, perhaps they should find a new line of work. Todd Buege